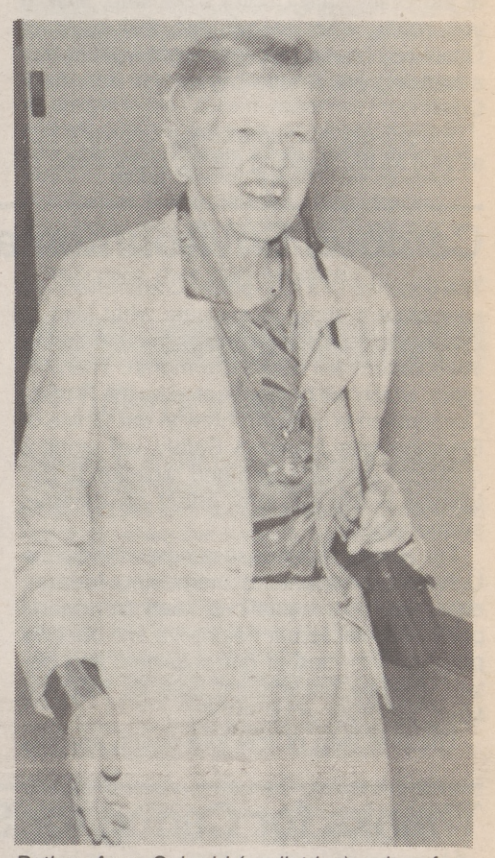
Our Founders Day . . . Some Fond Moments to Remember

Pride, warmth and a great sense of sharing was obvious as our Founders Day unfolded on April 7. Among the events were a research forum, sponsored in part by the Graduate Division and the Graduate Students Association, an awards luncheon, UCSF physiologist Michael Merzenich as the Faculty Research Lecturer, the UCSF Medal banquet, and the students' Founders Day Ball. Here are some of those moments:

Research contest discussion prompts a question from the audience.

At the afternoon reception for the graduate student researchers are winners DeLois Weekes, 2nd place in nursing; Anne Weinstein, 3rd in social sciences; Robin Colgrove, 1st in basic sciences; Catherine Chesla, 1st in nursing; Leah Dible, 2nd in social sciences; Beth Chesterman, 1st in social sciences; Mark Goldsmith, 2nd in basic sciences; and Joni Dirks, 3rd in nursing.



Retiree Anne Schmid (pediatrics) arrives for the luncheon.

A squeezed shot, but all the luncheon honorees none-the-less: ICN's Helen Archer-Duste (Distinguished Nurse Award); Millberry Union's Clifton LeBlanc; Medical Record's Sally Stewart; Hormone Research Institute's Leslie Spector; ACC's Peggy Koman; Rolland C. Lowe; community health nursing's Carol Mowbray; clinical nurse specialist Mimi Monahan (Helen Ripple Award for Excellence in Neuroscience Nursing); Toni Edwards, 11 Moffitt; Gerald Hill, Jr.; Patricia Byrd, VAMC pulmonary immunology laboratory. LeBlanc, Stewart, Spector, Koman, Edwards and Byrd won the Chancellor's Award for Exceptional University Service; Lowe, Hill and Mowbray the Chancellor's Award for Public Service. Missing: Clinical nurse Carol Yoshi (Jeanne Yalon Oncology Nurse Award).

UCSF Medal winner Jim Geary of the Shanti Project with Dean Rudi Schmid

A banquet toast to us: Minnie Goldberg, '25, S/M, and UCSF radiologist Susan Wall.

"Butt-Out" on Leake Day May 12

Every year our Alumni Affairs Office comes up with a bit of a twist to make Chauncey Leake Day a little more interesting. Last year, the Leake relay race had our hearty runners lugging trash bags along Parnassus.

This year, the relay racers will be dragging their butts for the smoke-free campus starting in June. Cigarette butts, that is. The race begins at noon on Thursday, May 12. Each team (we'll have six—each made up of four campus or Med Center employees) will be passing large cigarette butts as they make their way from Millberry Union, thrash their way down Parnassus, huff and puff their way up the School of Dentistry outside stairway, and finally wind their way into Saunders Court, and all to the enormous cheers of the crowd. At the end of the race, each team will symbolically throw their nasty butts into a large ashtray.

With all of this excitement, people are bound to get a little hungry. To help eliminate those terrible hunger pangs, hot dogs, chips and lemonade will be sold dirt-cheap ($1) in Saunders Court. For you folks who need something sweet to toss down after one of those little piggies, you can buy a confection at the Child Care Center bake sale. And, if you really want to get into the spirit of Chauncey Leake Day, you might want to buy a bedding plant, also on sale in Saunders Court.

You can get this same cheap lunch at CED, as well as the bedding plants. But instead of the race, there will be a raffle. With good prizes.

Leake Day has always been a mixture of fun and some earnest thinking. This year's Leake Lecturer is UC-Berkeley biochemist Daniel Edward Koshland Jr., PhD. He will discuss "Processing Information in Biological Systems" from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in Cole Hall.

Koshland's research interests lie in the mechanism of enzyme action, regulation and control of enzyme activity, the biochemistry of sensory systems and bacterial chemotaxis as a model sensory system.

The editor of Science magazine, Koshland is the winner of the T. Ducket Jones Award from the Helen Hay Whitney Foundation and the Distinguished Lecture Award from the Society of General Physiology.

Leake Day is a unique occasion for this campus. Mainly because it honors a unique man.

If you were on campus in the 60s and 70s, you probably at one point saw a very pleasant, gray-haired gentleman, chatting with folks in the halls, and maybe even stooping over to pick up some unsightly litter. That was Dr. Leake.

A warm, generous man, who was responsible for establishing our Department of Pharmacology, he was a poet, internationally-famed pharmacologist and medical historian, and genuinely concerned about making this campus a beautiful place. He died in 1978.

Campus Environmental Assessment Begins

The first step of a four-phase comprehensive assessment study to evaluate what kind of impact Parnassus site activities have on the environment will begin this month. The program, which will be conducted by the Radian Corporation in conjunction with our Office of Environmental Health & Safety, will monitor chemical agents, noise and radiation to determine if there is any effect on campus surroundings.

The results of this assessment will help the University respond to increasing federal, state, and local regulations; keep the general public, as well as our neighbors and our employees, informed of our activities; and obtain valuable background data for planning future activities at UCSF.

The first step of this four-phase assessment will identify the various types of research being conducted, as well as the physical, chemical and biological agents being used in the various labs on this campus.

During the next few weeks, Radian will interview lab personnel and conduct laboratory-use audits. Because it is impossible to interview all of the researchers and investigators in our 1700 labs, questionnaires requesting information on lab activities and inventories will be distributed.

J. Leroy Balzer, assistant vice chancellor, environmental health & safety, asks the cooperation of everyone to ensure the timely and accurate collection of data for this study. Anyone needing more information should call either Rich McGuire or Virginia Lew at x61300.

Thanks for Caring for SF Children

The cake says "Thank You for Caring For San Francisco Children," the theme of a big party hosted by Assembly Speaker Willie Brown and Mayor Art Agnos last week at UCSF-Laurel Heights. Among those recognized were the staff of the Marilyn Reed Lucia Child Care Study Center, including, left to right, Byron Sigal, head teacher and co-chair for the recent citywide "Week of the Young Child" observance; Diane Balter, former staff member; Patricia Larson, parent and UCSF nursing student; and Luce Sandoval, assistant teacher. Also at the party were Meryl Glass, Center director; Denis Blaise, president of the parent group, and Helen Pillsbury-Johnson, president of Friends of the MRL Child Care Study Center; and, not be be overlooked, Chancellor and Mrs. Krevans.

How Do You Bore a Steam Tunnel?

Not with dirty jokes about clogged pipes, but by carefully digging a tunnel in the ground.

Why are we telling you this? Because the next visible phase of our library construction, to begin this week, will be the boring of a new steam tunnel under Parnassus, just west of the Millberry traffic light. It will extend from the new library site to the west entrance of Medical Sciences (where Clinical Sciences building meets).

When completed, the tunnel will contain not only the steam line for the library, but also the lines for the campus computer and our telephone system.

Here is how our tunnel will be bored: A train-like machine gets dropped into a pit which already has been dug in the library construction site. The machine drills its way under Parnassus until it reaches the south side of the street. Then the machine is pulled out of the ground with a crane.

What does this mean to you, the everyday kind of guy or gal who sort of sails along the south sidewalk? The entire area around the hole on the south side of the street will be fenced in and a new pedestrian walkway will be constructed in the present planter area. There will be a lot of jackhammering and some backhoe work. The project should be completed in two months.

EMPACT! Says: Send Your Kids to Camp

- The Discovery Day Camp, sponsored by our own UCSF Outdoor Programs, will take your child (ages 7 to 12) to beaches, aquariums, museums and many other exciting natural and educational environments in the Bay Area. Four two-week sessions, beginning June 22. $195 for UCSF staff. Call x61469.
- Stonestown YMCA Camp provides fun and creativity for your kids without giving you the transportation blues. Seven summer sessions. $75 a week, plus $6 per week transportation to and from camp from Parnassus campus. Call 759-9622.
- Family Camps. EMPACT! can lead you to some great family camps in the Sierra or on the coast. Most are inexpensive and provide everything you want: Hiking, tennis, swimming, child care, more. Call x66932.
- More fun: Go bargain shopping with PRO Recreation on Saturday, April 30; call x61800. Go river canoeing with Outdoors Unlimited on Saturday, May 14; call x62078 or x61469. Or go to the horse races with EMPACT! on Sunday, May 22; call x66932. Look in your "Action Line" EMPACT! newsletter for many more ideas.

AIDS Health Project Grows, Volunteer Therapists Now Needed

A sampling of the UCSF AIDS Health Project staff: (front) Donna Berka, Laurie Yamamoto; (rear) JoAnne Uchida, Sandra Kriletich, Richard Daquioag, Ron Raglin, Dorothy Stinnett.

The UCSF AIDS Health Project began in 1984 with a small staff of four. Today, it is staffed with over 60 employees. "Unfortunately, it's a sign of these times," says director of the project James Dilley, MD, UCSF assistant clinical professor of psychiatry. "More and more people are being diagnosed with either AIDS, ARC or the HIV infection, so our services are becoming more and more essential."

The AIDS Health Project, which is housed on the fifth floor of CED, is an AIDS prevention and mental health promotion program. It serves people at risk for the disease, those with HIV infection and their health care providers, and helps those at risk for AIDS to make changes in high risk behavior.

The project has served over 25,000 individuals and has counseled another 35,000 at AIDS testing sites throughout the City. In fact, the UCSF AIDS Health Project staff has been responsible for all counseling at all of the San Francisco testing sites since the HIV antibody test was developed. The project also has trained over 70,000 health care professionals in all aspects of working with AIDS.

Now the project has a very specific need: More volunteer therapists. The therapists are part of a new pilot project which offers mental health services to persons with AIDS or ARC in San Francisco who cannot afford private therapy.

Volunteer therapists are matched with clients after the clients have been assessed and referred by mental health professionals from other San Francisco agencies. Those individuals with AIDS or ARC should not call the project directly. A referral is necessary.

"Even though we already have over 70 volunteer therapists, we need a lot more. We have many more referrals than therapists," says Laurie Yamamoto, MSW, who coordinates the new program. "We're asking for those people in private practice to please donate some of their spare time to this program."

Yamamoto says that all interested clinicians should be sensitive to the needs of women, people of color, people with substance abuse histories and gay and bisexual men. To qualify, therapists should have a valid California license and malpractice insurance, or be a registered, supervised intern.

All volunteer therapists receive monthly educational training on how best to treat their clients.

The UCSF AIDS Health Project also is sponsoring an in-depth, three-day conference open to all health care professionals who are concerned about their own work-related stress.

Called "AIDS and Mental Health: Beyond the Basics & Care for the Caregiver," the symposium will be held from Thursday to Saturday, April 28 to 30, at UC-Berkeley. For further information on the Volunteer Therapist Program, the three-day conference, or general information on the UCSF AIDS Health Project call x66430.

Happy 25th!

On a recent Friday, Alex Margulis quietly marked his 25th anniversary as chairman of the Department of Radiology—if you call "quietly" being bombarded with cards, flowers, fudge and numerous other congratulatory gestures. Colleagues note that under his 25 years of leadership, the department has been brought to national prominence, one of the top in the nation. Says Margulis, "It's gone by in a flash."

Honors & Awards

David Powers

Abraham M. Rudolph, professor & chair, pediatrics: Awarded the Arvo Ylppo Medal of the University of Helsinki. The medal is given every five years to one foreign and one Finnish researcher for their contributions to scientific research on the various problems of premature and newborn children.

Susan Pador Lukes

Eugene Gottfried, clinical professor & vice chair, laboratory medicine; director, clinical laboratories, SFGH: Received a 1987 Outstanding Speaker Award from the American Association of Clinical Chemistry.

Philip D. Darney, associate professor, ob/gyn & reproductive sciences & Institute for Health Policy Studies: Elected to the board of directors, Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

Appointment

Agnes A. Canfield, director, Office of Student Affairs, School of Nursing. With an extensive background in educational and academic administration, she came to UCSF in 1980 as secretary to the associate dean for academic programs in the School of Nursing. Since 1984 she has been an analyst in the Office of Academic Programs and will continue that work, combining it with her new position in Student Affairs. Helen Birkeland, who was acting director, will continue as assistant director. Former Student Affairs director Joan Healy, who has retired after 25 years of University service, will be honored at nursing's homecoming. (See story this page.)

Service Awards

Service awards are issued on staff members' tenth anniversary of employment (or longer, in increments of five years). Names are provided by Personnel as awards are processed. Campus and Medical Center departments should send criteria to Personnel as employees become eligible for service awards.

In Memoriam

Cordelia D. Porter, nuclear medicine specialist; lecturer, pharmaceutical chemistry. She came to UCSF in 1964 as a special assistant to renowned radiology researcher Kenneth Scott. She conducted the first programs at UCSF to train physicians in the use of radioisotopes in medicine. During the 1970's Porter served as a health physicist and lecturer in both nuclear medicine and pharmaceutical chemistry, and later worked in nuclear medicine to develop computer software for patient imaging. Since 1984 she had been manager of the Interdepartmental Health Physics Program in Nuclear Medicine.

Gerald S. Hoynes, librarian, Serials Unit. Before coming to UCSF he was a draftsman and assistant engineer at various Bay Area firms. He joined the library staff in 1970 as an assistant in the Archives Unit, later worked in the bindery and most recently in the Serials Unit.

Leone Lecture: "Regulating the Professions"

British medical sociologist Margaret Stacey, the School of Nursing's Lucile Petry Leone Distinguished Professor in International Nursing for 1988, will present "Regulating the Professions in the UK: Nurses, Doctors and Others" on Wednesday, May 4, at 2:30 p.m. in Toland Hall.

Professor of sociology at the University of Warwick, Stacey was for many years the only lay member of the General Medical Council, which regulates the British medical profession. She was instrumental in establishing the Centre for Research in Nursing Policy at Warwick, the only such center in the world.

The Leone Professorship was created to honor Lucile Petry Leone and her work in advanced international nursing. Now in her late 80s, Petry retired from UCSF in 1982. This year's professorship is sponsored by the Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

Promoting the Vote at UCSF

The week of May 2 is "Promote the Vote" week at UCSF. Students, faculty and staff who have not registered to vote are encouraged to take this opportunity to do so prior to May 9, the deadline to register to vote in the June 7 primary election.

A registration table will be set up in the lobby of Medical Sciences from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Registration materials also will be available the last two weeks of April at the Millberry Union Central Desk and in the AS-UCSF Office, Room 249 Millberry Union.

Anyone interested in helping to staff the voter registration table the week of May 2 should call Fred McEnroe at x65186.

Nursing Symposium to Recognize, Recruit Hispanic Nurses

The School of Nursing will hold its first symposium ever to honor, as well as recruit, Hispanic/Latino nurses on Friday, April 29, from 1 to 4 p.m. in Toland Hall.

Entitled "Hispanic Nurses—We Need You," the symposium will focus on the health issues of the Hispanic/Latino community and will include proposals for providing contemporary and culturally effective nursing care. Speakers will include Hispanic nurses who are presently in our nursing programs and who have taken leadership roles in shaping education.

For further information call Nancy Okamoto, x61844.

It's Homecoming Time Again!

The Schools of Nursing, Pharmacy and Medicine will be celebrating homecoming within the next two weeks.

- Nursing's alumni reunion will be held on Saturday, April 23. A morning lecture and afternoon panel discussion, both held in Cole Hall, will focus on the theme "Interdisciplinary Collaboration in Research, Practice and Education." Joyce Takano-Stone, '67, will receive the Distinguished Alumna Award, while Joan Healy of Student Affairs will be honored on the occasion of her retirement after some 25 years of University service. For further information call x64723.

Both the Schools of Pharmacy and Medicine will host their alumni on Saturday, May 14.

- The Pharmacy Alumni Association has invited hundreds of alumni to attend the 106th reunion of the school. A "rap session" will be held from 2-4 p.m. at the Faculty/Alumni House, followed by a wine reception and dinner at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel. The evening's events will include the presentation of the Distinguished Alumnus Award to Richard Penna, '58.
- Medicine's Alumni Affairs will present a morning scientific program in Toland Hall from 9:30 a.m. to noon centered around the theme "Medicine: The Past and the Future."

Mervyn J. Goldman, MD, UCSF clinical professor of medicine, has been unanimously voted Alumnus of the Year. He will receive his award during noon luncheon ceremonies in the Millberry Cafe. Student Awards for Academic Excellence also will be presented.

That evening, all homecoming classes will have the opportunity to tap the night away at a dinner dance at the Hotel Meridien. For further information on all medicine homecoming activities call x61471.

Benefits/Personnel

Answers to Your Payroll Questions

Here are numbers 11 and 12 in this series of questions that people frequently ask the Payroll office. Hopefully, you are cutting these out each time and pasting them neatly in your Payroll notebook for future reference.

I have dental coverage according to my check stub, but I did not request coverage. How come?

If your check stub or earnings statement shows an amount listed under UC Contributions as "Dental Alter," you are receiving the Dental Alternative Benefit and are not covered by dental insurance. Employees who are eligible to enroll in dental insurance—but do not enroll—automatically receive the Dental Alternative Benefit. For those covered by this alternative, the University deposits a monthly amount (currently $25) in a tax-deferred investment account with UCRS.

There is a similar alternative benefit for eligible employees who have not enrolled in optical insurance. It is listed as "Optical Alt" on your earnings statement and amounts to $8 per month.

I signed up for disability insurance. The premium deduction is not appearing on my check stub. My other insurances are being deducted. Why is this?

Most employee insurance is paid in advance; that is, the deductions and contributions on your April 1 paycheck are for coverage for the month of April. Three coverages, however, are paid in arrears. Temporary Disability, Long-term Disability, and Accidental Death and Dismemberment Insurance deductions on the April 1 paycheck are for March coverage. If you enrolled in one of those three, your first deduction should appear on your first check for the next month's earnings.

Public Service Credit for PERS Employees

Recent legislation gives members of PERS (Public Employees' Retirement System) the opportunity to establish public service credit for active military duty served before becoming a PERS member. If you are a PERS member (most people belong to UCRS) currently employed by UC or retired from UC on or after December 1, 1981, and this interests you, you may obtain further information by writing PERS Membership Division, Section 834, P.O. Box 942704, Sacramento, CA 94229-2704.

How are the Funds Performing?

For those invested in the additional savings programs, here are the latest unit values and monthly factors (as of March 31):

- Accumulation Unit Values

Equity Fund: $47.83 (-10.14%)*
Bond Fund: $31.70 (-1.23%)*

- Monthly Factors

Savings Fund: .0074 (9.25%)
Money Market Fund: .0071 (8.86%)
GIC Fund: .0074 (9.25%)

*Percentages represent total percentage increase over previous 12-month period.

Percentages represent the most recent returns expressed as an annualized rate compounded monthly. The money market and savings rates change monthly.

March for March of Dimes this Sunday

Marie Herron from ACC's Ob/Gyn Clinic would like to extend her personal invitation to anyone interested in participating in the March of Dimes' 50th Anniversary 10-mile walk over hill and dale and across the GG Bridge this Sunday, April 24. Registration is at 8:30 a.m. at the Marina Green, and the walk begins at 9. If it's too late to get any sponsors, Marie suggests sponsoring yourself. Or walk without sponsors, in order to show support from UCSF. After all, says Marie, the March of Dimes, which works for the prevention of birth defects, has supported many a project or program at UCSF.

Last Call for May Day Runners

Brigid Doyle, beeper #195, and Elaine Shanahan, x66659, are busy recruiting a UCSF 10K team in hopes of winning the Hospital Challenge championship for the third year in a row. The Hospital Challenge is the main event of the American Heart Association's May Day Run in Golden Gate Park on Sunday, May 8, 9 a.m., Polo Fields. Call one of these numbers now if you care to compete.

Krissy and Michael (from page 8)

Krissy's names multiple times. Their names got picked, along with two other Bay Area couples.

All six jetted to New York on a Thursday, went to the concert on Friday and were back home again in time to go to work on Monday. Krissy, who has worked here 17 years, all of it in Patient Escort, says she had been in New York once before. That was 17 years ago. But it was a first for Anthony.

"We saw as much as we could," says Krissy. "We went to Greenwich Village, Wall Street, Chinatown, and took the ferry out to the Statue of Liberty. We happened to be there on the night of the Grammy Awards, as we discovered when we were taking a horse and buggy tour around town. We passed by and looked to see if we could recognize anyone in the crowd. We didn't see any famous faces, but a couple of people did take our picture, as we passed by in the buggy."

And what about Michael Jackson? How was the concert?

"Well, we were just about as far as we could be from the stage. But the whole concert was monitored on a huge video screen, so in that way, we could see fine. He put a lot of energy into the show. He sang and danced for two hours. I think he did 22 songs."

Krissy has the whole trip recorded in photographs, should you be interested in seeing or hearing more of this story.

Have You Made Your Reservations to "Spend a Day" in May?

Why not take the opportunity during the first two weeks of May to visit another department that interests you? Through the "Spend a Day" program, you can visit a nursing department during the week of May 2 through 6; or just about any other Medical Center department during the week of May 9 through 13. This is sponsored by the Medical Center, but campus employees are welcome to participate as well.

But you must act quickly or you'll miss out. Sign-ups for nursing units officially end Friday, April 22, but co-chair Elaine McKenna says if you call Melony Hamilton early in the week of the 25th, they may be able to squeeze you in. Call x62252.

Sign-ups for other departments are available through Friday, April 29, by calling Alecia Jones, x61401.

If you have worked here a couple of years or more, you may have noticed that the "Spend a Day" program has become an annual event; moreover, an annual event staged in celebration of National Nurses Day (Friday, May 6) and Hospital Week (May 9 through 13).

"The idea," says Elaine, "is not simply to take a tour of another department. It's to spend an hour with a particular employee in that department, as that employee goes about his or her normal business. The host presents a 'slice of life' for the visitor."

If you need ideas for a good place to visit, Melony and Alecia can help you by telling you which places are available.

If you are so inspired, call Medsounds, x68471, after you have made your visit. Tell us what happened. It doesn't have to be earthshaking.

Here are Melony Hamilton (x62252) and Alecia Jones (x61401), ready to take your reservation for "Spend a Day." Call Melony for hospital or ACC nursing units, Alecia for all others.

Turnabout's Fair Play, Part I . . .

What you see here is Materiel Services assistant director Herb Jones blissfully immersed in an office massage, and the other members of the management team—director Star Deppe and assistant director Earl McCowen—waiting their turns.

What did they do to deserve this? You may remember from a couple of issues ago there was a photo of several Materiel Services employees receiving gift certificates. They had been commended by the ICN for their hard work, which inspired the department's staff recognition committee to grant them a reward.

On a second inspiration, the committee decided to give the bosses a pat on the back (a rub, anyway), since no rule says that's forbidden. "They work hard," says Roger Lewis, who's on the committee and also in this picture, behind Herb. "We thought, 'What could we do to give them a break?'" They came up with the massage idea, called up masseuse Linda Poelzl at x61800, and there you have it.

In addition to Roger, the members of this resourceful recognition committee, should you want to call them for ideas, include Lillie Baker, Jennie Coleman and Monica Hearne. Herb Jones and Camille Castro used to be on the committee, but since Herb moved up the ranks and Camille moved to the ER Department, the committee is recruiting for a couple of new members.

. . . And Part II

On second thought, let's call this one "King for a Day." Yes, there's Bill Kerr, seated upon his throne (a wheelchair) and radiating with happiness because the Admitting staff just crowned him "Honorary Admitting Worker" and held a banquet of chocolate chip cookies in his honor. What did he do to deserve this?

He mentioned during a recent meeting that nursing units frequently invited him to make rounds and learn about their work, but no such invitation had ever come from any of the operational departments. Admitting manager Joanne Pehkonen quickly got the ball rolling and suggested he come spend some time in her department.

He spent two hours, moving from station to station, meeting with staff members and getting briefed on how to preadmit and admit patients, assign beds, figure the census, get prior authorization for insurances, admit patients from the ER; learning about Medi-Pac, financial policies, the come-and-stay program, and all the other areas that fall under the hat of the Admissions Department.

For making this valiant effort, Admitting's staff recognition committee, consisting of Frank Nicholas, Jim Perkins and Rena Victoria-Adams, elected to mark Bill's visit in the above manner, and bring all the staff into the celebration.

One question. Can a person learn all the aspects of the Admitting Department in two hours?

"Bill Kerr can," says Joanne.

Footnote: If you're new to the Medical Center, these two articles have much to do with a relatively new program that allocates funds to each department for staff recognition activities. Many departments have set up committees of staff members to dream up recognition schemes. If your committee has a good scheme cooking and wants to share it, call Medsounds, x68471.

Let It Go On Record that Plastic Surgery Has Been Officially Welcomed to 7 Long

Here is plastic surgery resident Ryan O'Connell (right center) enjoying all the attention at a party hosted by 7 Long the other night.

The purpose of the party was to welcome the plastic surgeons whose patients now will be coming to 7 Long instead of 9 Long.

At the time of the photo, however, none of the attending physicians could be present. Bill Hoffman and To-nao Wong were stuck in the OR, Ron Barton was stuck at SFGH, and Stephen Mathes, who chairs the Division of Plastic Surgery, was stuck in traffic.

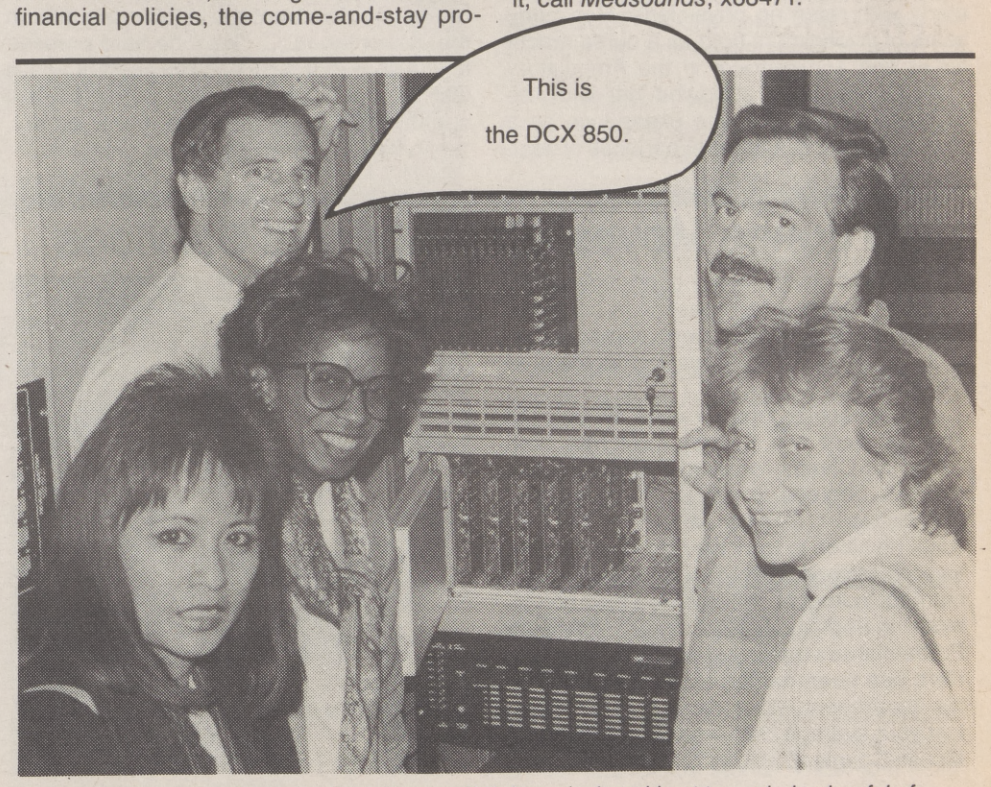
The reason 7 Long has inherited the plastics patients, says head nurse Debra Fila, is because of 9 Long's perpetual overflow and the fact that the care of plastic surgery patients is quite similar to vascular patients. In general, 7 Long takes cardiothoracic, vascular and ophthalmology patients.



Hospital Information System's Rick Moncreiff (left rear) played host to a whole classful of Golden Gate University data communications students, who took a field trip to the Medical Center the other night to look at our in-house computer networking system. To the right, in front, is Christie Olsen, class instructor. And in front of Rick is Luella Brown, a student in the class, and also a member of the HISD staff. It was Luella who dreamed up the field trip idea, convinced Rick he should conduct the session, and convinced HISD director Ron Schumacher he should donate two cakes for refreshments.

Buy a Ticket for $1, Win a Dinner at a Marvelous Restaurant

Maybe you heard: The Med Center Auxiliary has proclaimed May "Restaurant Month" at UCSF. Buy a ticket for $1 (or six for $5), and you'll stand a good chance at winning a visit to one of the many Bay Area restaurants that have donated a lunch or brunch or dinner for the raffle.

Tickets are on sale right now in the Auxiliary Office, M 182. That's just off Moffitt lobby, across from the cashiers. At CED, you can buy tickets in the Personnel Office on the first floor, Room 131. From all other locations, you can order tickets through the mail. Call x64906 for information.

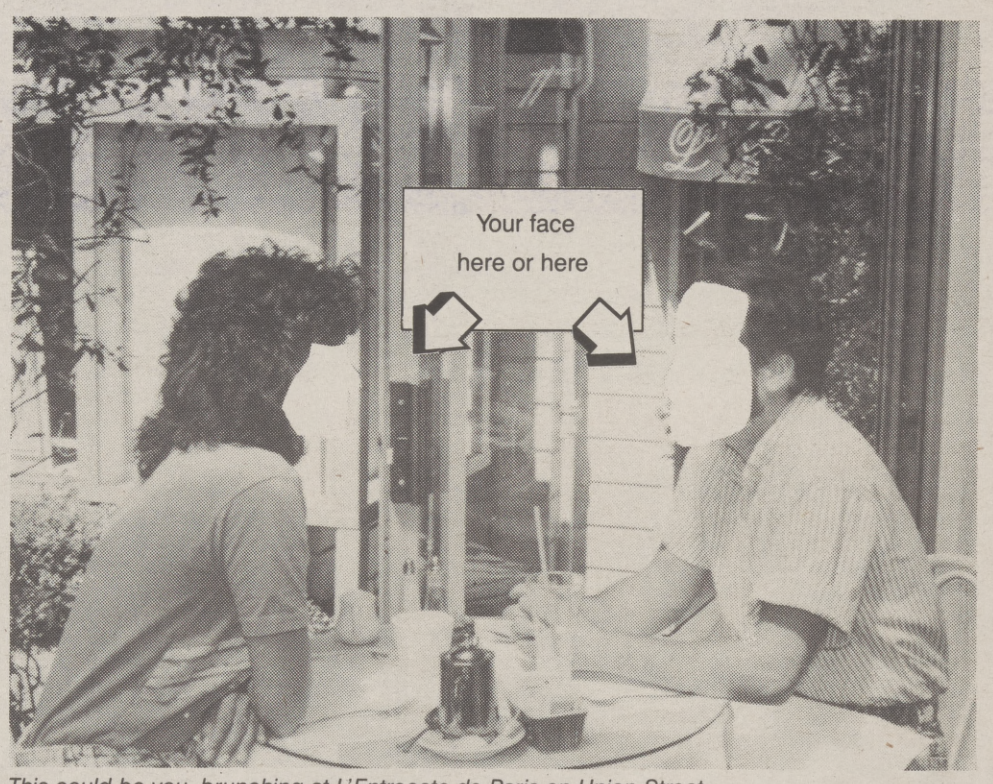
The drawing is scheduled for Wednesday, May 18, in the Med Sci lobby—probably around noon so you can watch if you like. Look for details in the next issue of Medsounds.

Here are the participating restaurants to date (more are expected):

- Campton Place
- Trader Vic's
- Fournou's Ovens
- Portman Grill
- Caprice (Tiburon)
- Harris'
- L'Entrecote de Paris
- Sabella's
- Modesto Lanzone's
- Balboa Cafe
- La Cremaillere
- Cole Canyon Cafe
- Stoyanof's
- Giramonti (Mill Valley)
- Las Guitarras
- Petite Cafe
- Luzern Restaurant
- Jo Ann's City Kitchen
- Lightening Foods
- Dipsea Cafe (Mill Valley)
- Mike's Chinese Cuisine

Many of these restaurants have donated more than one meal for two; and of course, many of the participating restaurants have set some kind of reasonable limit as to what you can spend (like $150 for dinner at Campton Place or $75 at Trader Vic's). But for $1, you'll certainly get your money's worth wherever you go. And remember, your $1 goes to the Auxiliary, which spends it on improvements to benefit patients and families.

P.S. Maybe you know of a restaurant that might be willing to take part in this. If so, ask them. If yes, call x64906.



This could be you, brunching at L'Entrecote de Paris on Union Street.

How About Volunteering for the Marin Fair?

Planning and Marketing is planning to have a booth at the "1988 Growing Family Expo" on Saturday and Sunday, May 21 and 22, at the Marin Civic Center. How would you like to help?

The booth will be similar to the one we had at the SF Urban Fair last year—with two stations within a big exhibit. One station will feature some form of health screening, and the other will feature a low tech activity that, as Patty Perry says in her memo, even administrators might be able to handle.

Since the SF Fair won't be held this year, this will be the Med Center's largest public exhibition this year. You would be doing a great service if you would call Eva Lee in Planning and Marketing, x64644, and say, "Yes indeed, you can count on me for a two-hour shift."

Also, if you have any good ideas for activities, your suggestions are welcomed.

Joan Hankin Moves to Planning & Marketing

It may take you by surprise to discover that Joan Hankin, formerly the assistant director of nursing in ACC, is now assistant director of Planning and Marketing for the Medical Center.

But consider this. Joan's new position has much to do with community outreach, particularly with referring physicians. Her many years of involvement both as a nurse practitioner and administrator in the Ambulatory Care Center have endowed her with the technical experience, the experience as a physician liaison, and the experience of dealing with a very broad base of community health needs.

Furthermore, if you ever have had any dealings with her, you'd probably be hard-pressed to think of anyone who could put forth a friendlier foot for the Medical Center than Joan.

The only disadvantage to this move falls on the part of the ACC. "We'll be hard-pressed to find someone who can replace her," says GM IV nurse practitioner Cindy Cutter, speaking for both staff and management. "Joan has an extraordinary set of talents."

Krissy Louie's Date with Michael Jackson

Patient Escort's Krissy Louie just returned from New York where she spent an evening with Michael Jackson.

Of course, she shared the evening with thousands of others at what was termed a "private" concert at Madison Square Garden.

Nevertheless, she saw him, heard him and did get within a few thousand feet. Furthermore, she and her boyfriend Anthony flew all the way to New York, stayed two nights at the St. Moritz, took in lots of sights, ate where they pleased and flew back home again. And they didn't pay a penny out of their own pockets.

Here's why: When TV 26 recently had a drawing to "Win a Trip to New York to See Michael Jackson," Anthony entered his and

Herb Jones Moves Up in Materiel Services

This is Herb Jones being congratulated by his wife, Christa, at a reception in his honor last week. Herb has just been named assistant director/sterile processing in Materiel Services.

The promotion tops off quite an eventful year for Herb and Christa. Last May both Herb and Christa received their respective master's degrees. Herb got his in hospital administration; Christa earned an MPH. In June, he came to work here as stores supervisor in Materiel Services. In July, they got married. In August, they went on their honeymoon. In September, Christa went to work for Prudential as a health administrator. And now Herb has been named assistant director in his department. What can we say? This is just your average Bay Area Rapid Upwardly Mobile Couple (BARUMC).

Look Who Won the Latest Perfect Attendance Raffle

If your name is on this list, it means you were one of the 50 people whose names were picked from a hat containing all the names of all the employees in the Medical Center who had perfect attendance from October 4 through January 9. It also means you got a $20 gift certificate redeemable at one of numerous campus vendors. Of course, you know this, since you already were notified and awarded your certificate.
